Kira Attwood is the representative for two parent advocacy groups snac (focused on supporting students in special education) and gpac (focused on supporting students in the gifted program). She can be reached at advocacy@mesppa.org to answer any advocacy related questions.

A schoolwide survey was completed by MES parents. Most who responded were either somewhat satisfied or quite satisfied. There were some critiques of how virtual learning has gone thus far. The survey revealed that parents disagree on the workload for students: some noted that there was far too much schoolwork, while others noted there was too little work. There were concerns that some data may have been skewed by middle school parents responding to the wrong survey.

At weekly PLC meetings, grade levels with work to address concerns parents have raised.

The team discussed whether parents should remain on the SIT. There was concern about parent representatives not attending. At present PTA is responsible for recruiting parents for the SIT team, but there has been inconsistent attendance among parents nominated for these positions. The district has begun an initiative to make this process more streamlined across all CHCCS schools. Their goal is to make SIT elections more consistent.

We will continue the work we did last year on the focus indicators identified last school year. One necessary step to take this school year is to adapt our plans to work in a virtual setting. We reviewed the work we began last year and agreed to brainstorm ideas for action steps we can take to make our work accessible during distance learning.
